Hagel Nominates Stuart and Dari Dornan for “Angels in Adoption” Award

Washington, D.C. — U.S. Senator Chuck Hagel (R-NE) today announced the nomination of Stuart and Dari Dornan of Omaha for the Congressional Coalition on Adoption’s annual “Angels in Adoption” award. This special award is intended to raise public awareness of the various ways that committed people can help with adoption.

“The Dornans have proven that love transcends biology in their family,” said Hagel. “And it is also important to recognize the work they’ve done to encourage others to adopt as they have. This award highlights the many contributions the Dornans have made to their family, community and country in promoting adoption.”

Besides adopting two Romanian children and raising four biological children, the Dornans have been active in helping Adoption Links Worldwide encourage potential adoptive parents. They have also counseled families with adopted children.

The Congressional Coalition on Adoption sponsors the annual “Angels in Adoption” campaign to promote adoption across America. Senators and Representatives are asked to nominate constituents who have been actively involved in adoption.
